An initiative of London Craft Week, Create Day is an opportunity to reconnect with our own creativity and bring like-minded people together through a day of global celebration.

“Well before Covid-19, we had become somewhat isolated from each other, too busy, too narrow-focus. Yet there has never been more creativity, imagination and talent. Or people who appreciate it. In that sense, despite so much uncertainty, I believe we live in auspicious times.” Guy Salter, Chairman, London Craft Week.

“We’re delighted to be partnering with Create Day. Congratulations to the team at London Craft Week for pulling this global 24 hour event together. We’re previewing three makers from our upcoming project Isolate Make showcasing their resilience during the pandemic. It’s particularly exciting to have this global day during our Sydney Craft Week festival.” Lisa Cahill, ADC CEO and Artistic Director.
